TOURNAMENT PROGRESSES FAVOURABLY

Many Turn Out To Tennis and Much Enthusiasm Shown.

Although the courts were heavy, due to the rain of Thursday and yesterday morning, all were occupied yesterday afternoon, and several games in the first round of the tournament were played. This spirit, of enthusiasm, is what is required to bring the Tennis Team to the standard set by former McGill teams, which won several of the Inter-collegiate series.

As all the games of the first round have to be finished by to-night, it is expedient that those men, who are drawn in the first round, play their games to-day, as any man, who fails to turn up, shall forfeit his game as well as any chance of making the team. Therefore it is up to the individual man to get in touch with his opponent by phone, this he can do by visiting the Club House where all the men's names and telephone numbers are listed, and not depend on his opponent doing the telephoning.

Of the matches played to-day, the one between Powell and Woolward was the most exciting and interesting, in this match Woolward took the first set very easily, the score being 6-2. Woolward excelling at the next game. In the second set Powell seemed to settle down, and after a hard set in which many brilliant rallies took place, Powell finally edged out and won 7-5. In the third and final set, both men were now playing at the height of their form—Powell changed his tactics, and instead of playing the deep game, played at the net, this change of play nettled Woolward, and although he fought hard, he finally lost—score being 6-4.

Other games played were won more easily, Claxton beating Hall in straight sets—score, 6-1, 6-1, and Beauch defeated Thompson also in straight sets—score, 6-2, 6-2.

Amongst the games scheduled to be played to-morrow several close and interesting ones are promised, especially the Ross vs. McNabb, as both men are evenly matched, although playing different styles. Bournay vs. Sherrard also promises some fine tennis. Yates vs. Ramsay also ought to produce some exciting play.

Several men took advantage of the opportunity offered to enter the tournament yesterday, and as yesterday was the last day for entries, it is absolutely futile for any man to try and enter now. Amongst those entered yesterday were Common, McGreel, Yates, Ramsay, Fortin and H. Hamilton, and they are drawn to play as follows:—

Fortin vs. H. Hamilton.
Common vs. Ward.
McGreel vs. Greene.
Yates vs. Ramsay.

All these men, in addition to the list published, are requested to note that to-day is the last day in which the first round may be played. As mentioned in yesterday's Daily, the two centre courts are reserved for Tournament play and a Committee man will be on hand to see that this rule is enforced.

200 STUDENTS HAD DINNER AT UNION

Extra Help Hired to Handle Rush At Noon—Popularity Increasing.

The Cafeteria grows more popular daily. Thursday over 160 men had dinner from 12 to 2 p.m. While yesterday over 200 filled the big dining room. As time goes on and the high quality of food is maintained, the students are gradually becoming convinced that those in charge of the cafeteria are doing well by them, and consequently are coming regularly for their meals.

Heretofore the cafeteria has been open only during the day, but in response to numerous inquiries, Mrs. Price has decided to keep open during the evening, so that students wishing late lunch may drop in at any time. The closing hour has not been determined but 10 p.m. has been temporarily fixed as the time.

During the past two days some little delay was experienced between 1 and 2 p.m. owing to the rush of students from 12 o'clock lecture, but the management has arranged to have extra help there at that hour so no more delay is anticipated.

MED. 22 MET NEW PHYSIOLOGY PROF.

Chair Of Physiology Left Vacant By Death Of Dr. Mines in 1914.

Yesterday morning, on the occasion of the commencement of the course in physiology for third year Medical students, Dr. Birkett, Dean of the Faculty, introduced to the class its new professor, Dr. John Tait, late of Edinburgh.

Dr. Birkett opened his remarks by referring to the close association that there has always been between McGill and the famous Edinburgh University. The latest example of the cordial sympathy and co-operation between the two institutions is exemplified by the departure of Dr. J. C. Meakins to take up the professorship of Clinical Therapeutics at Edinburgh, and the arrival of Dr. Tait from that great Scotch University, to take up the Chair of Physiology here.

This position has been vacant since 1914, when Dr. Mines who had only been professor for a few months met with a sad death that cut short his brilliant career. In this connection Dean Birkett played a sincere tribute to Dr. Downs and Dr. Eddy, who have carried on the work of that department since then with great efficiency and success, although severely handicapped by working under unavoidable difficulties.

In securing Dr. Tait, McGill gets a man who has made for himself a brilliant record by his work both before and during the war. Shortly after the outbreak of the war, Dr. Tait left his position in Edinburgh and went to Macedonia, where he saw active service for some time. Then he was transferred to the Italian Front, where he was stationed when hostilities ceased. Dr. Tait has contributed many papers to the scientific journals and has done much research work. Dean Birkett felt sure that under him the department of Physiology would add greatly to the fame of McGill.

Replying to Dean Birkett, Dr. Tait paid a great tribute to the previous professor, Dr. Mines, who had been widely known for his work on the heart, which, however, was unfortunately ended abruptly by his sudden death. In concluding, he said that he felt privileged in succeeding such an eminent man, and that it would take the hearty co-operation of all, in order to keep the work of the department up to the high standard that had hitherto been maintained.

SING AT THE HALL.

Many of the older students of McGill will be pleased to see that the "sings" have been resumed. But for the benefit of new students we would like to say that the "sings" are just informal gatherings in the reading room of Strathcona Hall after church service on Sunday evening, where the old hymns we have known at home are sung. All are welcome. Be sure and be present.

LARGE NUMBER FRESHMEN OUT TO RECEPTION

Second Function Proved Huge Success.

MEDS. AND SCIENCE

Deans Thornton and Lee Welcome Students. Clubs Represented.

Following on the entertainment given on Thursday evening, a similar reception was tendered to the freshman year of the Faculties of Science and Law and the Department of Dentistry in the Strathcona Hall last night.

Mr. Jamieson, President of the McGill Y.M.C.A., occupied the chair, and in introducing the first speaker, Dean Adams extended a cordial welcome to all the men who were coming up to McGill for the first time.

Dean Adams, Acting Principal and Dean of the Faculty of Science, made reference to the unprecedented number of students who had registered this session, and said that the difficulty was to find adequate accommodation for all. He saw before him men who had come from all parts of the world, and pointed out that this must necessarily result in a broad-minded and cosmopolitan spirit. He urged new students not to make their studies too limited, they must remember that healthful recreation was as necessary for the maintenance of efficiency as close application to their college work. Reference was also made to the returned men who formed a large part of the student body this year and he extended to them a special welcome. Dr. Adams concluded his remarks by reminding his audience of the high standard they were called upon to maintain, and wished them all prosperity and success towards that end.

Dean Lee, of the Faculty of Law, said he was glad to have an opportunity to welcome the new students. He had come, he said, prepared to address more particularly students in his own faculty, but he was afraid that Law was only indifferently well represented there. He had hoped, he said, to have been able to make a living out of their profession. Dean Lee then referred to his experience while teaching Law in Oxford, where he had been a Professor of Law for the better part of twenty years and contrasted conditions there with those obtaining on this side. At Oxford, he said, the Colleges were entirely residential and were so arranged that a Law Student, for example, might have as a neighbor a Mod. or an Arts man, and as a result there were opportunities for a mutual exchange of opinions which could not help but prove beneficial. The Faculty of Law at McGill, he said, had been charged with being somewhat remote from the others, and while he deplored this inevitable dissociation he hoped that at some would be introduced into McGill and all branches would become even more closely related. Dean Lee also made reference to the returned men, and declared that it was a great privilege to have been permitted to have lived through such momentous times and predicted that the next twenty years would be no less momentous.

Dean Thornton, of the Department of Dentistry, was the next speaker, and began by conveying a message (Continued on Page Two.)

FREE TICKETS FOR RUGBY SQUAD MEN

Members Of 2nd and 3rd Teams May Bring Friends.

At a meeting of the Rugby Club Executive held last evening it was decided to give complimentary tickets to the 2nd and 3rd Team Squads.

The Second team will get tickets for all games here while the 3rd team for the 2 inter-collegiate games only. This measure is being adopted to stimulate these players to turn out consistently for practice.

It was also decided owing to the lack of playing field-space that the inter-class games be done away with and that an inter-faculty series be substituted. The Faculty Representatives will shortly confer with their respective faculties to arrange the most suitable hours for practice and games. The schedule will appear in an early issue of the "Daily."

AN OPPORTUNITY

The "Daily" is now well underway, with many of the old crew back and everything pointing towards success. With the enormous increase in registration comes a corresponding increase in news and an added amount of work for the staff. The revival of athletics opens up a new field of opportunity for men to show their physical ability, and already a number of the new men at college are showing up splendidly both on the track and with the rugby aggregation. At the same time this regeneration of undergraduate activity, as it were, presents to men with journalistic inclinations a chance which they should not let slip by.

The "Daily" offers to these men the means of acquiring a good knowledge of journalism. It should be understood that the work of editing a newspaper is by no means of a kindergarten nature, and the man who has mastered the office routine will find that he has accomplished something which is worth while and which will be of inestimable value to him no matter what profession he may afterwards take up. Several men, former editors of the "Daily" now holding prominent positions as lawyers, executive heads, as well as several newspaper men of some renown, can trace their success to the training which they received in assisting on our college publication.

It has been decided to increase the staff somewhat this year, and consequently there is room for a few men who are interested in journalism. By helping the "Daily" you are not only allied to one of the most important of undergraduate activities, but you are gaining some experience worth while.

NO ROOM FOR DOUBT

Some may consider it a bit of bad policy on our part to broach what has become a more or less painful topic at McGill during the last few years, namely, the question of a Freshman-Sophomore Rush. In certain cases, however, it is excusable to sacrifice a little caution in order to indulge in a certain amount of frankness. We are inclined to believe that the question of the customary Rush furnishes a case in point. There is little use in disguising the fact that neither the university authorities nor the students have felt much satisfaction with the situation as it has existed for the last two years. There has, we believe, been considerable misunderstanding and both parties concerned have manifested more or less disinclination to compromise.

Without in any way suggesting the possibility of trouble, or insinuating that a conflict between the students concerned and the authorities is imminent, we wish to point out and draw attention to the fact that at present there is upon the books of Corporation a resolution totally and absolutely prohibiting anything in the nature of a Rush. The term "rush" used in this connection refers to the well-known methods of initiating freshmen employed by men of the second year. The prohibitory clause includes and extends to the forcible detention of students in any manner, whether by seizing and binding, or by so interfering with the liberty of men that they are prevented from attending lectures in compliance with the rules and regulations of the University. Furthermore, any action which involves, or may be likely to involve, damage to property, likewise falls beneath the prohibitory ban. In other words, and stated as briefly as possible, the Rush, as heretofore known and understood, is banned in its entirety.

It is not our purpose to discuss the wisdom of Corporation in adopting the attitude which it has towards what has become a firmly established custom even though it may be a foolish one. We consider that to be rather beyond our jurisdiction. The real purpose of this article is to point out the law as it stands and will apply, in order that there may be a minimum of misunderstanding.

To some the question of whether or not the Rush should be permitted will provoke but one answer and that in the negative. To others the reply will possibly be decidedly affirmative. As to which will constitute the majority we have no hesitation in saying that the latter will outnumber the former. We state this frankly as our opinion of the situation, and only state it at all in order that there may be perfect frankness and as nearly as possible complete understanding.

It must be clear to everyone that, as matters now stand, there is but one course open to the men of the first two years. The authorities have spoken, and, unless they will modify their decision, it only remains for the student body to adhere to the rules laid down.

McGILL'S CREST -- ITS ORIGIN AND MEANING

Of all the details of the University there is nothing so prominently displayed as the McGill coat-of-arms.

In every place of college life the device is seen standing out in prominence. The first thing that a freshman lays hold on is the McGill calendar with it on the cover, the sophomore wears it on his sweater on field and ice, and most undergraduates decorate their studies with college cushions and banners, all with the same crest on them, whilst the graduate has it on his certificate of graduation. Yet few men have an exact knowledge of origin and meaning.

When in 1821 the Hon. James McGill founded the University he saw fit to use his own family crest, which had been taken by his forefathers in Scotland years before and consisted of three silver martlets on a red ground. The accompanying motto was "In Domino Confido," "In God I Trust." For years after the decease of the founder this was the college crest. But as time went on it was thought to be not quite suitable, and after some discussion a committee, which included Dean Adams and Dr. Adams, was appointed to deal with the matter. A coat-of-arms was devised and submitted to the Herald's College. After examination it was declared correct in every detail and well befitting a University such as McGill.

This coat of arms, which is in use today, has the McGill family crest as a basis. Above the three silver martlets the designers placed in primary importance the open book, an essential emblem of a University, on whose pages is inscribed the old motto "In Domino Confido" to denote the fact that McGill is a non-sectarian college. Furthermore two crowns were placed, one on each side of the book representing the Jewels of the Monarch of Great Britain and Ireland and the Ruler of France, to show that McGill is in every sense a national seat of learning and is open to all Canadians, the descendants of English settlers and French Colonists. Beneath the open book and above the silver martlets is a wavy line localizing the University as lying at the foot of the Three Mountains, Mount Royal, Westmount Mountain, and Outremont Mountain. The remainder of the crest is that of the McGill family and serves as a token of gratitude to the memory of the man who made the University possible. Above the lower portion of the shield is a semi-circular ribbon in three major and two minor folds upon which is inscribed the College Motto "grandesunt Ancti Labore", "Increase goes by toll", which was probably taken from Lucretians. Circumscribing the shield is the border proclaiming to one and all that the coat of arms is that of McGill University, the college of Mount Royal.

LARGE NUMBER FRESHMAN OUT TO RECEPTION

from Mrs. Thornton to the effect that they would be "At Home" to students of dentistry on two nights to be decided upon later. In his Department, too, as in others, there had been a record registration of first-year students, and they too were faced with the problem of accommodation. Dr. Thornton then referred to the growing importance of the science of dentistry, and declared that the graduates of McGill were well and favorably known all over the world, and the students whom he saw before him must remember that when the time came for them to receive their degree they had a part to play, they must live up to the high standard set before them, and they ought to realize that Alma Mater was conferring upon them an honor as well as a degree. He then referred to the higher status that Dentistry was earning for itself, particularly was this the case since the war had proved how necessary an adjunct it was to the prevention of disease and the preservation of efficiency. Canada had been the first country to realize this, and was in point of fact the first nation to have a Dental Corps as part of its establishment. In his old country, too, people were beginning to realize the importance of proper dental treatment, and had recently passed legislation to the effect that all practising dentists must first be licensed.

At McGill, he affirmed, there existed the very best conditions for the study of dentistry, for every subject was taught where it could be taught best, and instanced the anatomy course which forms part of the Faculty of Medicine. People are beginning to realize, said Dr. Thornton, that dentistry means more than mere mechanic treatment, it means treating people who are sick, and quoted an authority on the subject who claimed that 75 per cent of all diseases had their focus in the mouth. This public demand must be met, he affirmed, but he hoped that every student when his time came to graduate would go out into the world intent on maintaining the traditions of Old McGill, and "more determined to make a life than a living."

After the main speakers of the evening had been heard, the audience were invited to join in singing some of the College songs and to practise the College Yell. "Archie" Jenks, Leader of the Rooters Club, then spoke urging everyone, and particularly the first-year men to get into the Rooters Club. Not everyone, he said, had the good fortune to play for his College team but there was nobody who could not help to cheer his team on to victory.

Refreshments were then served, and thereafter several speakers brought forward their claims of various form of college activity.

The rest of the evening was devoted to the singing of some of the McGill songs, with which the new men became familiar for the first time, and was terminated by the singing of "Hail, Alma Mater," and the National Anthem.

Correspondence

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters placed in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office — that they write upon ONE side of the paper ONLY.

No communication will be admitted in this column without the name of the writer being attached, not necessarily for PUBLICATION.

The Editor, McGill Daily,

Dear Sir:

The members of the Sophomore year read the letter from "A Sane Student," which appeared in yesterday's "Daily," with much amusement at first, but their feelings rapidly turned to pity for the poor individual who, in trying to help his classmates, is only showing the more clearly that they need to be enlightened by their more wise fellow students of the second year.

I can only say, Mr. Editor, that when you captioned the article with the phrase "NOT NECESSARILY FOR PUBLICATION," you must have surely intended that some of your assistants should have kept the letter from the columns of your paper. It was bad enough that the poor individual should have committed some of the erratic conclusions of his youthful brain to paper, but that they should have appeared in print is surely a pity.

It would be interesting if this young individual would tell us some of his ideas after his verdancy, now so apparent, has been mellowed by the well-known process which has been patented by the members of my year.

Sincerely Yours,
SOPHOMORE.

Judge Doubts Statements Of The Physicians

"As Nature has endowed man with two ears, and two eyes, it is a special disposition for man's benefit, and no matter how many physicians would swear that one of each was as useful as both, I would not believe it," said Mr. Justice Lafontaine yesterday in Superior Court hearing the case of Joseph Soucy against the N. K. Fairbank Company, Limited, for total deafness of his right ear, caused by burning steam, when disconnecting two pipes on the premises of the company last April.

Soucy is a steamfitter and it was pointed out by a specialist who attended him, that deafness in a steamfitter would particularly hamper him in his work, even though as suggested by counsel for the company that deafness would more materially affect a musician.

"Then there is the man's right to the full enjoyment of his life, not only his working capacity," said Mr. Justice Lafontaine. "This case should be settled. Come to an arrangement between you," he advised the lawyers.

Later on the lawyers had agreed upon $350 as damages.

"A good judgment," said Mr. Justice Lafontaine.

Gray Is Mayoralty Candidate Again in City of Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Oct. 3. — Mayor Charles F. Gray formally announced yesterday his intention to seek re-election for another year on November 20th next, and opened his campaign at the C.P.R. shops when three thousand workers were at lunch. A certain percentage of the men did not wish to hear what he had to say. "Do you want to hear me?" asked Mayor Gray, amid a regular hubbub of voices, some contending for a fair hearing and others for him to leave. "All right, then, I am quite satisfied," he said. "I want to tell you first of my intention to run again, so that you can organize your strength against me."

Another Quits Housing Board Rumor Asserts

Following an epidemic of resignations, the work of the Montreal Housing Commission seems to be paralysed for this year, and as the winter approaches, there seems very little promise of anything being done until next year.

Yesterday, the chairman of the Commission, Mr. Alfred Lambert, resigned, on the plea that he was going to Europe, and this morning reports say that Dr. Lotbiniere Harwood has also resigned, leaving only Commissioner Alphonse Verville a member of the commission. Prior to the recent resignations, other members of the commission to resign were Commander J. K. L. Ross, Mr. Stewart, and Mr. C. S. Campbell.

When questioned this morning as to the report that he had resigned from the Housing Commission, Dr. Lotbiniere Harwood declared: "If I am going to be alone on the Housing Commission, you can depend upon it that I am going to resign."

No Plans Yet.

The principal work of the doctor on the commission was to pass upon plans of houses, in order to see that they were prepared along lines of proper hygienic conditions. "Up to the present," declared Dr. Harwood, "no plans have even been submitted to me." The general belief at the City Hall is that the Housing Commission scheme is falling through, and the experience in this city is not isolated. Very few reports are coming to the Administrative Commission from other

Next Congress A.F. of L. May Be In Montreal

Montreal will be the convention city for next year's great congress of the American Federation of Labor. This morning a wire was received at the City Hall from the Secretary of the Federation of Labor asking if it would be convenient for next year's convention to be held in Montreal, and if the necessary arrangement could be made.

The telegram was addressed to the Mayor, but as Mayor Martin is out of the city, as a matter of fact on his way home from his trip to the Pacific Coast, it was opened by the Mayor's secretary, who immediately took the matter up with the Administrative Commission. Following a discussion it was decided to reply to the telegram, pointing out that Montreal would be happy to receive the delegates, and that the necessary arrangements, regarding halls, etc., could be made. Delegates will attend the convention from all parts of Canada and the United States.

cities proving that the scheme is a success elsewhere. That may be a reason why Montreal is going slow on the matter.

AN OPPORTUNITY

The "Daily" is now well underway, with many of the old crew back and everything pointing towards success. With the enormous increase in registration comes a corresponding increase in news and an added amount of work for the staff. The revival of athletics opens up a new field of opportunity for men to show their physical ability, and already a number of the new men at college are showing up splendidly both on the track and with the rugby aggregation. At the same time this regeneration of undergraduate activity, as it were, presents to men with journalistic inclinations a chance which they should not let slip by.

The "Daily" offers to these men the means of acquiring a good knowledge of journalism. It should be understood that the work of editing a newspaper is by no means of a kindergarten nature, and the man who has mastered the office routine will find that he has accomplished something which is worth while and which will be of inestimable value to him no matter what profession he may afterwards take up. Several men, former editors of the "Daily" now holding prominent positions as lawyers, executive heads, as well as several newspaper men of some renown, can trace their success to the training which they received in assisting on our college publication.

It has been decided to increase the staff somewhat this year, and consequently there is room for a few men who are interested in journalism. By helping the "Daily" you are not only allied to one of the most important of undergraduate activities, but you are gaining some experience worth while.

NO ROOM FOR DOUBT

Some may consider it a bit of bad policy on our part to broach what has become a more or less painful topic at McGill during the last few years, namely, the question of a Freshman-Sophomore Rush. In certain cases, however, it is excusable to sacrifice a little caution in order to indulge in a certain amount of frankness. We are inclined to believe that the question of the customary Rush furnishes a case in point. There is little use in disguising the fact that neither the university authorities nor the students have felt much satisfaction with the situation as it has existed for the last two years. There has, we believe, been considerable misunderstanding and both parties concerned have manifested more or less disinclination to compromise.

Without in any way suggesting the possibility of trouble, or insinuating that a conflict between the students concerned and the authorities is imminent, we wish to point out and draw attention to the fact that at present there is upon the books of Corporation a resolution totally and absolutely prohibiting anything in the nature of a Rush. The term "rush" used in this connection refers to the well-known methods of initiating freshmen employed by men of the second year. The prohibitory clause includes and extends to the forcible detention of students in any manner, whether by seizing and binding, or by so interfering with the liberty of men that they are prevented from attending lectures in compliance with the rules and regulations of the University. Furthermore, any action which involves, or may be likely to involve, damage to property, likewise falls beneath the prohibitory ban. In other words, and stated as briefly as possible, the Rush, as heretofore known and understood, is banned in its entirety.

It is not our purpose to discuss the wisdom of Corporation in adopting the attitude which it has towards what has become a firmly established custom even though it may be a foolish one. We consider that to be rather beyond our jurisdiction. The real purpose of this article is to point out the law as it stands and will apply, in order that there may be a minimum of misunderstanding. To some the question of whether or not the Rush should be permitted will provoke but one answer and that in the negative. To others the reply will possibly be decidedly affirmative. As to which will constitute the majority we have no hesitation in saying that the latter will outnumber the former. We state this frankly as our opinion of the situation, and only state it at all in order that there may be perfect frankness and as nearly as possible complete understanding.

It must be clear to everyone that, as matters now stand, there is but one course open to the men of the first two years. The authorities have spoken, and, unless they will modify their decision, it only remains for the student body to adhere to the rules laid down.

McGILL'S CREST -- ITS ORIGIN AND MEANING

Of all the details of the University there is nothing so prominently displayed as the McGill coat-of-arms. In every place of college life the device is seen standing out in prominence. The first thing that a freshman lays hold on is the McGill calendar with it on the cover, the sophomore wears it on his sweater on field and ice, and most undergraduates decorate their studies with college cushions and banners, all with the same crest on them, whilst the graduate has it on his certificate of graduation. Yet few men have an exact knowledge of origin and meaning.

When in 1821 the Hon. James McGill founded the University he saw fit to use his own family crest, which had been taken by his forefathers in Scotland years before and consisted of three silver martlets on a red ground. The accompanying motto was "In Domino confido", "In God I Trust". For years after the death of the founder this was the college crest. But as time went on it was thought to be not quite suitable, and after some discussion a committee, which included Dean Adams and Dr. Adams, was appointed to deal with the matter. A coat-of-arms was devised and submitted to the Herald's College. After examination it was declared correct in every detail and well befitting a University such as McGill.

This coat of arms, which is in use today, has the McGill family crest as a basis. Above the three silver martlets the designers placed in primary importance the open book, an essential emblem of a University, on whose pages is inscribed the old motto "In Domino Confido" to denote the fact that McGill is a non-sectarian college. Furthermore two crowns were placed, one on each side of the book representing the Jewels of the Monarch of Great Britain and Ireland and the Ruler of France, to show that McGill is in every sense a national seat of learning and is open to all Canadians, the descendants of English settlers and French Colonists. Beneath the open book and above the silver martlets is a wavy line localizing the University as lying at the foot of the Three Mountains, Mount Royal, Westmount Mountain, and Outremont Mountain. The remainder of the crest is that of the McGill family and serves as a token of gratitude to the memory of the man who made the University possible. Above the lower portion of the shield is a semi-circular ribbon in three major and two minor folds upon which is inscribed the College Motto "grandescent Ancti Labore", "Increase goes by toil", which was probably taken from Lucretians. Circumscribing the shield is the border proclaiming to one and all that the coat of arms is that of McGill University, the college of Mount Royal.

from Mrs. Thornton to the effect that they would be "At Home" to students of dentistry on two nights to be decided upon later. In his Department, too, as in others, there had been a record registration of first-year students, and they too were faced with the problem of accommodation. Dr. Thornton then referred to the growing importance of the science of dentistry, and declared that the graduates of McGill were well and favorably known all over the world, and the students whom he saw before him must remember that when the term came for them to receive their degree they had a part to play, they must live up to the high standard set before them, and they ought to realize that Alma Mater was conferring upon them an honor as well as a degree. He then referred to the higher status that Dentistry was earning for itself, particularly was this the case since the war had proved how necessary an adjunct it was to the prevention of disease and the preservation of efficiency. Canada had been the first country to realize this, and was in point of fact the first nation to have a Dental Corps as part of its establishment. In his old country, too, people were beginning to realize the importance of proper dental treatment, and had recently passed legislation to the effect that all practising dentists must first be licensed.

At McGill, he affirmed, there existed the very best conditions for the study of dentistry, for every subject was taught where it could be taught best, and instanced the anatomy course which forms part of the Faculty of Medicine. People are beginning to realize, said Dr. Thornton, that dentistry means more than mere mechanic treatment, it means treating people who are sick, and quoted an authority on the subject who claimed that 75 per cent of all diseases had their focus in the mouth. This public demand must be met, he affirmed, but he hoped that every student when his time came to graduate would go out into the world intent on maintaining the traditions of Old McGill, and "more determined to make a life than a living."

After the main speakers of the evening had been heard, the audience were invited to join in singing some of the College songs and to practise the College Yell. "Archib" Jenks, Leader of the Rooters Club, then spoke urging everyone, and particularly the first-year men to get into the Rooters Club. Not everyone, he said, had the good fortune to play for his College team but there was nobody who could not help to cheer his team on to victory.

Refreshments were then served, and thereafter several speakers brought forward their claims of various form of college activity.

The rest of the evening was devoted to the singing of some of the McGill songs, with which the new men became familiar for the first time, and was terminated by the singing of "Hail, Alma Mater," and the National Anthem.

Judge Doubts Statements Of The Physicians

"As Nature has endowed man with two ears, and two eyes, it is a special disposition for man's benefit, and no matter how many physicians would swear that one of each was as useful as both, I would not believe it," said Mr. Justice Lafontaine yesterday in Superior Court hearing the case of Joseph Soucy against the N. K. Fairbank Company, Limited, for total deafness of his right ear, caused by burning steam, when disconnecting two pipes on the premises of the company last April.

Soucy is a steamfitter and it was pointed out by a specialist who attended him, that deafness in a steamfitter would particularly hamper him in his work, even though as suggested by counsel for the company that deafness would more materially affect a musician.

"Then there is the man's right to the full enjoyment of his life, not only his working capacity," said Mr. Justice Lafontaine. "This case should be settled. Come to an arrangement between you," he advised the lawyers.

Later on the lawyers had agreed upon $350 as damages.

"A good judgment," said Mr. Justice Lafontaine.

Gray Is Mayoralty Candidate Again in City of Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Oct. 3. — Mayor Charles F. Gray formally announced yesterday his intention to seek re-election for another year on November 20th next, and opened his campaign at the C.P.R. shops when three thousand workers were at lunch. A certain percentage of the men did not wish to hear what he had to say. "Do you want to hear me?" asked Mayor Gray, amid a regular hubbub of voices, some contending for a fair hearing and others for him to leave. "All right, then, I am quite satisfied," he said. "I want to tell you first of my intention to run again, so that you can organize your strongest against me."

Another Quits Housing Board Rumor Asserts

Following an epidemic of resignations, the work of the Montreal Housing Commission seems to be paralysed for this year, and as the winter approaches, there seems very little promise of anything being done until next year.

Yesterday, the chairman of the Commission, Mr. Alfred Lambert, resigned, on the plea that he was going to Europe, and this morning report says that Dr. Lotbiniere Harwood has also resigned, leaving only Commissioner Alphonse Verville a member of the commission. Prior to the recent resignations, other members of the commission to resign were Commander J. K. L. Ross, Mr. Stewart, and Mr. C. S. Campbell.

When questioned this morning as to the report that he had resigned from the Housing Commission, Dr. Lotbiniere Harwood declared: "If I am going to be alone on the Housing Commission, you can depend upon it that I am going to resign."

No Plans Yet.
The principal work of the doctor on the commission was to pass upon plans of houses, in order to see that they were prepared along lines of proper hygienic conditions. "Up to the present," declared Dr. Harwood, "no plans have even been submitted to me."

The general belief at the City Hall is that the Housing Commission scheme is falling through, and the experience in this city is not isolated. Very few reports are coming to the Administrative Commission from other

Next Congress A.F. of L. May Be In Montreal

Montreal will be the convention city for next year's great congress of the American Federation of Labor. This morning a wire was received at the City Hall from the Secretary of the Federation of Labor asking if it would be convenient for next year's convention to be held in Montreal, and if the necessary arrangement could be made.

The telegram was addressed to the Mayor, but as Mayor Martin is out of the city, as a matter of fact on his way home from his trip to the Pacific Coast, it was opened by the Mayor's secretary, who immediately took the matter up with the Administrative Commission. Following a discussion it was decided to reply to the telegram, pointing out that Montreal would be happy to receive the delegates, and that the necessary arrangements, regarding halls, etc., could be made. Delegates will attend the convention from all parts of Canada and the United States.

cities proving that the scheme is a success elsewhere. That may be a reason why Montreal is going slow on the matter.

President Is Critically Ill

Washington, Oct. 3.—There was no improvement in President Wilson's condition this morning and Rear Admiral Grayson, his personal physician had another consultation with Rear Admiral Stitt of the naval medical school, and Dr. Sterling Ruffin, Mrs. Wilson's family physician, who participated in yesterday's consultation with Dr. F. X. Dercum of Philadelphia. The President slept some last night. With him is a trained nurse who is assisting Mrs. Wilson in caring for the patient. The President has no temperature and his heart action is good, it was said at the White House. Orders of the physicians that the President be kept absolutely quiet will be strictly enforced, Secretary Tumulty said today.

Free From All Duties.

No official business will be brought to the executive's attention, no matter how pressing, Mr. Tumulty said, and no one except members of the immediate family will be permitted to see him.

The President was informed late yesterday of the defeat in the Senate of the Fall amendments to the peace treaty and of the ratification of the treaty by the French Chamber of Deputies and this news apparently cheered him considerably, Mr. Tumulty said.

It was announced officially that the turn in the President's condition would not interfere with the industrial conference next week. In the event that the President is not able on Monday to address a communication to the conference, Secretary Tumulty will notify them of the President's desires regarding the selection of a permanent presiding officer.

Philadelphia, October 3.—Dr. Francis X. Dercum of this city, noted neurologist, who examined President Wilson as a consulting physician, said today that "the President's condition is grave, but that he is of a cheerful frame of mind." After spending an hour and a half at the President's bedside, Dr. Dercum returned home at midnight.

"We merely confirmed Dr. Grayson's diagnosis, made previously, and found the President very much in need of rest. He is very cheerful and takes an interest in what is going on. This is an encouraging indication."

Mr. Wilson, according to Dr. Dercum, realizes that he is a sick man and is making an effort to cease chafing under the restraint which compels him to relinquish temporarily the helm of the administration. By nature, said the neurologist, he is a "hard man to handle" from the viewpoint of a physician.

The consulting physicians have agreed with Dr. Grayson that the President is suffering from nervous exhaustion brought on by the strain of his work at the Peace Conference and his recent tour over the country.

MANY OLD TIMERS ARE OUT FOR GORE THIS AFTERNOON

Number Of Championship Team Men Are Included in Line-Up—Dr. "Pud" Argue Confident His Team Will Make the More Youthful Aggregation "Look Sick"—Signal Practice Was Held This Afternoon—Many Of Famous Old Formations Will Be Used.

The executive of the Rugby Club has spared no effort to make today's game with the "Old Boys" a huge success. This is practically the first effort McGill has made in this line since the beginning of the great war, and with good weather should make a fitting re-opening of the old sports.

The men who are to form the "Old Boys" team have arrived in town, and are all enthusiastic about this afternoon's encounter. A signal practice was held yesterday afternoon and the men seem to be in particularly good shape for the game.

The McGill team had a rather light workout and indulged in no tackling, the afternoon being largely spent in signal practice. Several of the regular men on the team who had played in 1914 will play for the "Old Boys", but Ross will appear for the present college aggregation. Gallery was not out but will in all likelihood appear tomorrow. Flanagan, who hurt his shoulder in the game with M.A.A.A. will be unable to turn out.

It is expected that there will be a very large attendance at the game. The seats have been going quickly during the last few days, and it is estimated that nearly all the graduates of recent years, who reside in the city, and a goodly proportion from out of town will be present. Of course all the undergraduates are expected to attend, as it will give them a good opportunity of seeing what the team which is to represent the college in the Inter-Collegiate Union, is like. The line-up has been announced as follows:

"Old Boys"		McGill
Seath	Plying Wing	Campbell
Williamson	Half Backs	Honey
Draper		Laffoley
Paley		Anderson
Montgomery	Quarterback
Stuart Forbes	Outside Wings	Wallace and Baillie
Norman Forbes		C. Forbes
Ted Savage	Middle Wings	Cope or Nicholson
Waterous		Hall
Davies	Inside Wings	Ross
Brown		Notman
Fred Davies	Scrummage	Ambridge
Ferguson		Marsh Kern
Turnbull		Allen
		Mallison
		Quilty
		Kennedy
		Ross Laing

There was a marked increase in the sale of seats last night, not only for this afternoon's game, but also for those of the Inter-collegiate schedule.

"Art" Brown.

INITIAL ROOTERS PRACTICE ON TUES.

Leader Jenks Anxious For Big Turnout at 5.10 At Hall.

The initial practice of the Rooters' Club will be held in Strathcona Hall next Tuesday at 5.10 p.m. This is an activity in which every one can take part. It is also a very material aid to the different college teams, so that every one can actively and strongly back them up in their bids for the championships.

The club, helped as it will ultimately be by the band, should prove an effective organization. If every one, who possibly can turn out and brings a lusty voice with him. Already some of the components of the band have been got together, and it is hoped that it will prove an exceptionally good one. So that with its aid there should be no difficulty in organizing an enthusiastic Rooters' Club. A. N. Jenks is leading this activity and expects to see this a record year.

There is a record registration this year so that there are any number of men who have ample time to turn out both for the fun of the thing and to help their Alma Mater.

It is one of the best ways to show your college spirit, and one of the first and best opportunities for freshmen to show that they belong to old McGill. So all up men Tuesday at 5.10 p.m. at Strathcona Hall.

DARTMOUTH FOOTBALL CAPT.

J. C. Cannell '20 of Everett, Massachusetts, has been elected captain of the Dartmouth varsity football team. He played on the Everett High School team for four years before coming to Dartmouth in 1915. He plays quarterback, and as an open-field runner he has few collegiate equals. During the year he was in the navy and played halfback on the Little Building team last year, as well as being on the all-service team of the First Naval District.

MAINE BASEBALL CAPT.

B. R. Waterman of Portland, was elected captain of the University of Maine baseball team today for the season of 1919. He is a first baseman.

VERMONT TRAINING

The football squad at University of Vermont, now numbering 24, is undergoing training at Grand Isle with Dr. Edward as coach. The nucleus of the team are Granger of last season's team, Randall of Brattleboro, and Brock of Rutland.

POPULARITY OF ENGLISH INCREASING

English Comp. Class Is Record One

IN COMMERCE.

Latin Room Taxed to Utmost Capacity—Prof. Latham, Exponent.

If the crowds are any indication of enthusiasm, the study of English Literature has assuredly taken a turn for the better. For the past month the extension courses of the School of Commerce have received wide prominence in the daily press. Last night marked the opening of the English Literature Course of this department.

The Arts building as usual was enjoying the accustomed silence but about seven o'clock its halls were rudely awakened by the sound of a multitude of people. At first Art Stang, the genial janitor, was unable to account for this sudden change but immediately commenced to cope with the situation. This soon became impossible and he was obliged to call in outside aid.

At seven thirty however all were seated in the Latin Room which nevertheless was taxed to its utmost capacity.

Perhaps no one was as surprised as Prof. Latham. However on being informed that all had duly registered in Commercial writing the fact his course of "English Composition in Commercial writing" he accepted the fact as a good sign of the times and in due course led his enthusiasts along the intricate and complicated byways of English composition.

All the Universities in both Canada and the United States are reporting unprecedented enrolments this year. It is not surprising in view of this fact to find the extension lectures so popular amongst non-college people.

LOEW'S—Vaudeville and Pictures.

A vaudeville bill that should prove of special interest to vaudeville patrons will be offered at Loew's next week. Heading the programme will be Carson and Willard, two of vaudeville's funniest men. They will present their amusing skit, "A Peep Into the Future," which is a prophetic exaggeration and one of the most laughable skits seen in a long time.

Peggy Brooks, always a favorite with theatre goers, appears here for the first time in vaudeville. Miss Brooks only recently left the Ziegfeld Follies to go on her own. She is full of life and cute little mannerisms and has a line of songs and costumes that will appeal. Another special act that will have especial interest for Montreal is that presented by Milloy, Keough and Co. in "Putting One Over." Milloy is a Montreal boy and when he lived here was a member of St. Patrick's Church. Their act is a comical skit.

La Petite Jennie is French and has an international reputation as a dancer. She is one of the smallest actresses on the vaudeville stage but is accomplished in every way. Tomkins and Co. will offer a juggling and illusion act. Constance Talmadge will be featured on the picture end of the bill in "A Lady's Name," which is a novel story dealing with a woman novelist who finds upon an unusual theme for obtaining material for her new book. The consequences of her experiment lead to many laughable situations. "Uncle Tom Without a Cabin" is the title of the comedy. Loew's British Canadian News will complete the bill.

THE ORPHEUM.

Next week the Orpheum Players will present Cyril Harcourt's delightful comedy, "A Pair of Silk Stockings." This is probably the most successful and most entertaining play from the pen of the gifted English playwright. The story has to do with Sam Thornhill and his divorced wife. Their separation came about as the sequel to a quarrel over the particular type of automobile they should buy, and Sam regrets it very much. As the outcome of an unfortunate combination of circumstances, he finds himself compelled to take refuge, in his make-up as a character of "Caste," the old-time comedy, in a wardrobe of the room occupied for the night by the wife who has divorced him. To the same room, unknown to him, is occupied, returns a former admirer of Mrs. Thornhill, a Major Bagnall, who has misser his train.

Sam is discovered, mistaken for a burglar, trussed up and unceremoniously thrust into the bathroom, which is locked. He manages to make his escape, however, and when the time comes for Major Bagnall to produce the burglar in order to relieve himself from the odium of a most unpleasant situation, he is unable to do so, and intense general embarrassment ensues.

How the tangled threads are straightened out, and how Sam and his former wife make it up and decide to marry again, constitutes a most engaging and diverting story, full of comedy and replete with immensely amusing situations.

Mr. Harcourt has succeeded in writing a comedy which, though its situations might be wrongly construed, is nevertheless free from suggestiveness and rich in laughter from start to finish. His gift for epigram, his keen wit and his unfailing sense of humor are all clearly revealed through three acts of mirth-provoking mistakes and misunderstandings, all happily cleared up in the final act.

AT THE NEW GRAND.

Intense, vivid, the story of two women for one man, and still a story without a suggestive line or situation in it is the description given "Virtuous Men," starring E. K. Lincoln, which comes to the New Grand starting Sunday.

Settings for the picture are the forests along the Canadian border—some of the scenes having been made within a few miles of Montreal—and a great shipbuilding plant. The story tells of a young society man who has just lost his fortune, foiling the designs of a group bent on destruction. Another claim made for the production is that it is remarkably well balanced, but that is expected in a picture made by so famous a director as Ralph Ince. Mr. Lincoln is the principal actor but is not kept constantly on the screen, as in the case of so many of the stars.

An example of the cleverness of the direction is the manner in which the director has used the two principal women characters, Grace Darling, a pronounced blonde, and the girl whom the hero wins in the end, and Clara Joel, a striking brunette, who has the role of the girl who jilted Lincoln. Contrast is furnished by the big scenes. Thousands of people are used in these. One of these is staged in the lumber camp and another in gigantic shipyards. These are naturally of the rough and ready type. But there is another big scene which shows a masked ball in New York, hundreds of dancers wearing the most exquisite of frocks. An actual society event was utilized for this, the men and women taking part deeming it a huge frolic.

As a matter of fact, the genuineness of the various scenes is one of the greatest points of the picture. In the shipyard scenes, real workmen are shown and in the earlier chapters the actors are largely men who earn their daily bread by felling timber.

Mr. Ince declares that this picture represents his best work, and since he declines to be tied down by contracts that force him to make hurried productions and confines himself to but two or three pictures a season, that statement from him is full of meaning. A special musical score has been arranged by Director D. Levine, of the New Grand concert orchestra, which will be rendered during the showing of "Virtuous Men." By request, Mr. Levine will render a violin solo, "Honorable," by Anton Dvorak.
